

The Womb Speaks... by learning to connect to the inner voice of the womb, Mother God can reveal herself to you... dare to let your own womb speak...

"In the deep essence of giving, all can be had - simply drop into me fully open, fully transparent - allow the desires of your heart to pour forth into my blood, into the fecund lining of my womb to root and take seed, detach from them and let me nurture or dismantle them, let me release and birth them into Being in their Divine moment. You have only to imagine it and let it Be. Then with a free, empty Heart you can be a vessel for all that I want to give and share through you. This is how service begins - willingness, emptiness, connection... to me. Nothing of true value or duration in your world can come into Being without my presence, my gift of life to its Birth. When YOU are not present, but are just an empty vessel, magic and magnificence are my paintbrushes, wonder and beauty my colors, your life my canvas, humanity my Gallery. Behold the imperfect Beauty We Are. What is fear, but a drying up of the brush, simply dip into me again and the masterpiece continues to unveil, one stroke at a time." -

through Araya's womb